TAFT CERTAIN

To be Nominee, Says Senator McCreary.

Washington, Jan. 20.—Senator McCreary said, in an interview today that Taft will be the Republican Presidential nominee. There is no danger of war between the United States and Japan, according to Senator McCreary, who is a member of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations.

"The most prominent men of Japan, who have recently visited this country," said the Senator, "have assured us that Japan entertains only the best of feeling of friendship for America, and many Americans of prominence, who have visited the Mikado's empire lately, report that there is no sign of enmity against the United States on the part of the Japanese people. I do not believe there is any excuse for the war talk whatsoever. It does a great deal of harm."

WALKED IN SLEEP

And Thieves Got Combination of Safe.

Jackson, Miss., Jan. 20.—A unique confession was made yesterday to A. F. Thomason, cashier of the National Bank of Hattiesburg, by James Harper and W. T. Smith, bank robbers, brought back from Seattle, where they were caught after a long chase.

Harper says the bank cashier walked in his sleep. He and Smith watched the bank for several nights, according to their confession, and frequently witnessed Thomason enter with the aid of his key. They never dreamed that he was not in full possession of his senses until they saw him under an electric light with his eyes closed.

Then the robbers say they conceived a plan to enter the bank with Thomason and to gag him if he came out of his trance. They declare that Thomason gave them the combination to the safe, which they looted, and that they left, leaving Thomason asleep in the bank.

DYNAMITERS ARE KILLED IN CLARKSVILLE

Caught in the Act of Placing Dynamite Under Regie House.

GUARD'S DEADLY AIM.

Three In the Gang and Two of Them Are Instantly Killed.

Two negroes were shot and killed about midnight Tuesday night while trying to dynamite the Regie factory of Hayes-Sory Co. in Clarksville. The shooting was done by a guard, named Ed Shanklin, of relative of the policeman of the same name in this city. Shanklin opened fire with a pistol in each hand, firing at three men in the act of setting fire to the fuse already laid, and two were brought down. They were found to be Clarksville negroes known as "Bad Eye" and "Toney" Allen. One was a bad character generally and one had recently been discharged by the company.

Examination showed that they had saturated the wooden door of the brick building with oil and placed dynamite sticks ready to touch off. Other dynamite sticks and pieces of wood were found on the dead bodies of the negroes.

The attack occurred about midnight, when the three guards were in the habit of eating lunch. Two were inside and Shanklin was on guard alone.

Shanklin detected the three men about to set fire to the building and asked what they were doing. They at once ran and he pursued, a 44 colt in each hand. They turned a corner and after running the full length of the building he dropped one and kept after the other two. Fifty yards further he killed the second one, and took a shot at the remaining one who gave a yell but kept going and escaped. It is believed the third man was wounded, and a later report says the police have him located.

BARN BURNED BY NIGHT RIDERS NEAR PEE DEE

Another Outbreak Monday Night in Western Part of County.

J. D. COLEMAN VICTIM.

Was Preparing to Ship Partnership Tobacco to Clarksville.

A band of night riders burned a large barn on the Sybert place, about two miles east of Pee Dee Monday night about midnight. Residents of the vicinity are reticent in regard to the facts, but negroes are quoted as having reported that fully 100 passed through Pee Dee. Another report is that there were about 25 in the party, which is probably nearer the truth.

The barn contained the share crops of Frank Coleman and Dave McGraw, colored croppers for Jas. D. Coleman of Clarksville, who owns this farm and the Jesse Carter place near Roaring Springs.

The negroes had tried to put their tobacco in the association, but it is said Mr. Coleman had ordered it packed and shipped to Clarksville. One report is that the negroes protested against this and asked that the crops be divided in the barn, but Mr. Coleman sent empty hogheads and ordered the tobacco to be hand packed and shipped to him, to be sold at 10 cents.

During the fire loud detonations were heard, and it is supposed that the hogheads or bulks were blown to pieces with dynamite. The light was plainly seen by night watchmen in this city.

Another barn on the same farm containing the crop of Green Long, col., was not burned. Long was busy Tuesday trying to get the crop divided so he could turn his part over to the association.

A white man, James Ward, operates the Carter farm and he refused to allow his share crop to be sold outside of the association.

The tobacco in the three barns was insured for $500 with Edmund & Buchanan of this city, with a riot clause in the policy.

The loss is not known but there was probably at least 10,000 pounds and the barn was worth about $500. The total loss was probably $1,500 or more.

HOW TO COOK VEAL

SEVERAL DAINTY DISHES PREPARED FOR TWO PEOPLE.

Braised Cutlets à la Creole That Will Prove Appetizing—A Chafing Dish to Dispose of Left-Overs.

Cooking Directions—The Dresser. New York. Braised Cutlets à la Creole—Heat a tablespoonful of lard in a frying pan. Chop four small onions fine and let them fry for a moment in the hot lard. Then season four chops, or cutlets, with salt and pepper, dredge them with flour and place them on top of the frying onions. When they have sizzled for a few moments, add two tablespoonfuls of vinegar, a little chopped parsley, a bayleaf and some thyme. It is well to save from time to time, until it has browned, two sides; then add a coffee-cupful of hot water, cover the pan, and let the water come to a boil quickly. At this point, remove it to the back of the stove, where it can do no more than simmer, and leave it for two hours. Remove the meat and garnish with bayleaf, garnish with freshly chopped parsley.

Perfect Soufflé—Much as many people object to the stew, or to any dish that savors of it, the cook who is willing to take some pains in preparing the viands for her table can serve a very stew in such a manner that the fact that it is a "stew" will never be suspected. To do this she must make a very light white sauce by using a heavy, tall-bottomed pot of flour and a goodly proportioned piece of butter to a cupful of good milk, or cream. When this sauce has commenced to boil, she must take some thin slices of cold veal and lay them in it, adding half a dozen mushrooms, chopped, and a little minced parsley. Simmer until the meat has become heated through, when it is ready for the table.

Veal in Chafing Dish—The appearance of a chafing dish at supper, or even at luncheon often adds materially to the delight of the repast, so if you have a chafing dish that can be taken into service during the day when you want to dispose of meat left-overs from the roast of veal. To do this, melt some butter in the pan, and fry some chopped onions in it until they have browned nicely; then add a cupful of veal gravy, or white stock, and lay the slices of veal in it. Season with salt, pepper, and mushroom catup, and, after about two or three minutes, add a well-beaten egg, and serve immediately.

English Veal Cake—When so much of the roast has been used that it is no longer possible to get slices, there are still several methods by which it can be prepared most appetizingly. Purchase a few slices of veal, and two eggs, and you can serve one of the famous English veal cakes. Here is the recipe: Take about a pound of cold roasting veal; remove all fat, etc., and chop it into small pieces. Grease a plain mold and put into it alternate layers of the meat, hard-boiled eggs, and boiled ham in slices with chopped parsley and salt and pepper between each layer, until the mold is nearly full. Next, take some good stock and flavor it with tarragon, mace and pepper to taste. Pour this over the other ingredients until the meat is covered with the brine. Bake it for half an hour, but do not overdo it until it has become so cold that it can be sliced easily. Served with a garnish of crisp watercress, these slices of veal cake make a most acceptable hot-weather luncheon dish.

Russian Croquettes—Another nice article dish, which will appear attractively on a table of mixed viands, known as "Russian croquettes." To make them, mince a pound of cold veal, and season it with pepper, salt, a little nutmeg and half a teaspoonful of grated lemon peel, and moisten with a sauce made as follows: Heat a copper-colored iron over the boiling point, then dip a slice of bacon, a stalk of celery, a bayleaf, half a dozen peppercorns, and parsley, thyme and mace. Do not let the mixture actually boil, but keep it simmering steadily for fully 15 minutes. Then strain, season to taste with salt and pepper, and thicken with a blend of flour and water. When this sauce is better prepared, roll some soft paste very thin, and, when the sauce and meat have been combined, shape a tablespoonful of the mixture into the shape of a croquette and roll it up in a strip of the puff paste, pressing the ends together closely. Have some deep fat ready and fry the croquettes over a high fire. They should be browned, crisp, well seasoned and bite of lemon. They must not be put on a cold platter nor kept standing, because, to be really delectable, croquettes should be served very hot.

Umbrella Cover as Hair Protector—A woman who was the proud possessor of a braid of hair which reached well below her knees, every hair even and the whole one shiny length of golden brown, gave this secret of the beauty of her crowning glory. It certainly is an original scheme, to say the least. She took the cover of her silk umbrella (she uses them at least), and each night after the dust of the day had been removed by a vigorous brushing, this cover was drawn snugly over the braid and securely tied. Thus the ends were kept unbroken and the hair untangled, no matter how many times she might brush it. When she was ill, when the hair must not be combed, she braided it in two plait and saturated those ends with alcohol before even attempting to comb the least bit, the work will be accomplished in half the time.

Culinary Concretes—When interrupted while frying in deep fat drop a dry crust of bread into the fat to prevent its burning. When frying croquettes, be sure to plunge the basket in hot fat before the cubes are placed in it. This will prevent them from burning when lifted out.

Cracker and Bread Crumbs used in covering the top of meat dishes should be well greased in melted butter. This makes a better covering than the dry croutons dotted with butter and uses less of the latter ingredient. Mrs. L. G. P.

COLONIAL SOCIALES A FAD,
It Can Be Made a Success in Every Community.

There is one form of sociable which is warranted to be a success, since every one is interested in it from start; this is the "colonial social." The committee in charge of the arrangements letting no house escape, for in every one something is tucked away which speaks of earlier days. The committee on decorations may hang the walls of the parlors with crossed swords, old muskets and flags, and portraits of Washington and other colonials. The tables are round, round, round, to be tables and chairs of old mahogany, spinning wheels, andirons, and curious kettles. Arranged around the wall are the low, narrow, tables draped with cheese cloths in blue and yellow, bearing old silver, brass candlesticks, snuffers, decanters, slippers, embroidery, fans and jewelry, with samplers, and pictures of various colored family portraits above. Each article should be labeled with the owner's name, the date of the manufacture, or use of the article, and any historical event in connection with it.

It is a good plan to have everything brought to the parlors early in the day and returned at the close of the event. This is the most popular form of social, and is one of the interesting things about the sociable to see the quality of relics even the smallest town has hidden away.

For entertainment some one may sing some of the revolutionary ballads, or tell a curious event in family history, or read from old records. Or there may be a game of cards, or a game of "Paul Revere's Ride" or "Dorothy Q." or some description of life in colonial days. Of course the whole affair is more delightful if the hostess at least can come in quaint old silk or cotton gowns, with tall combs and huge fans, and powdered hair.

As to refreshments, there should be coffee, tea, punch, beer, cider, and perhaps doughnuts, or little spicy cookies. A great deal of fun can be had if old recipe books are hunted up and some of the things tried which are suggested there.

This sociable suggests one on much the same lines, where a real New England supper is served at six, all the guests dressed in their best, and same dishes which were served long ago. Afterwards the same entertainment may be provided as at the colonial sociable, with or without the pretty old dresses.

DRINKING AT MEALS.

Water Should Be Taken Only After Eating, Says an Authority.

Most physicians today will tell you to take any liquid, and least of all water, during meals. There are, however, two distinct exceptions.

Those with a tendency to heart or other diseases arising from excess of uric acid should avoid liquids until two hours, at least after eating.

For those without such a tendency there is no harm in drinking a moderate amount at the end of the meal.

There is also a sound reason based on the custom of keeping the coffee at the last course. Even when this prandial drinking is permissible, one should avoid excess. A little cold water in the mouth is often just as refreshing as if gallons of the liquid had been consumed.

The great American fault—one of the worst—is the consumption of enormous quantities of ice water, which is really a deadly beverage and not fit for civilized man to drink—I emphasize "civilized" for no savage would do anything so stupid as to chill and paralyze the muscles of his stomach in the belief that he is cooling his skin.

The rules, then, are: A little water if you are thirsty, and when the stomach is normal, not too cold, and taken at the end of the meal. And thus will you avoid the countless ills to which most drinkers during meals are heir.

Umbrella Cover as Hair Protector—A woman who was the proud possessor of a braid of hair which reached well below her knees, every hair even and the whole one shiny length of golden brown, gave this secret of the beauty of her crowning glory. It certainly is an original scheme, to say the least.

She took the cover of her silk umbrella (she uses them at least), and each night after the dust of the day had been removed by a vigorous brushing, this cover was drawn snugly over the braid and securely tied. Thus the ends were kept unbroken and the hair untangled, no matter how many times she might brush it.

When she was ill, when the hair must not be combed, she braided it in two plait and saturated those ends with alcohol before even attempting to comb the least bit, the work will be accomplished in half the time.

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS

Under a new Postal law that went into effect Jan. 1, the Kentuckian will have to stop all papers April 1 that are in arrears more than one month at that time. In future we will make no further longer than six months after the time expires. If you owe, be sure to get on a cash basis by April 1.

WATCH THE LABEL ON YOUR PAPER.

JAN. 23, 1908.

A Kentuckian named Higgins was fined $11 for spitting on the floor of a street car in Indianapolis.

Senator Geo. P. Wetmore, Republican, of Rhode Island, was re-elected Tuesday, after a long deadlock.

John Sharp Williams has been formally elected Senator from Mississippi, but will not take his seat until March 4, 1911.

Twenty-six new bills were put in the Senate hopper Monday. One of them makes burglary a capital offense and another turns the dog loose.

The negro hung at Dothan, Ala., by a mob was cut down by the sheriff before life was extinct and will recover.

Senate bill No. 77, by Senator Watson, makes complete and radical changes in the present common school system.

Senator Watson beat Senator Rives to it in offering the bill to put Kentucky on a dry basis by a constitutional amendment. Senator Rives is not so fast as some, but he generally gets there all the same.

Not much credence is given to the sensational story sent out from Rio Janeiro that anarchists were thwarted in a plot to blow up one or more of the American battleships in that harbor.

The first thing P. J. Brown asked for, upon being released from a Nevada mine after having been buried 46 days, was a chew of tobacco. And just to think of all the good tobacco that was being wasted in Kentucky while this poor fellow was under ground!

John Feland seems to be standing in with the press boys at Frankfort. It is a dull day when the gentleman from Christian does not get himself mentioned in some way.

The sub-committee of the Democratic Committee now at Denver is highly pleased with the preparations for entertaining the national convention in June. The auditorium is now under construction.

Senator Frank Rives got one of his fingers hurt in the railroad wreck at Bagdad Monday. Let us hope that the injured finger is not the one with which he feels the public pulse in his district.

Harry Thaw is evidently not so insane as his lawyers would have it appear. He insisted upon having his wife play to a full house when telling her dramatic story that hung the jury before.

How's This?

Senator Newman has introduced the new libel bill that all of the newspapermen are asking for. It provides that punitive damages cannot be collected when a voluntary retraction of libellous matter is made.

The Pennsylvania Supreme Court has held the new 2-cent rate law unconstitutional, by a vote of four to three.

Ernesto Nathan, a Jew, has been elected mayor of Rome. He was born in England, educated at Oxford and is Past Master of a Masonic Grand Lodge.

Mr. C. M. Barnett, in his own newspaper, the Hartford Herald, states that he has resigned the presidency of the A. S. of E. to take effect Feb. 25.

A negro was lynched at Dothan, Ala., Sunday night by 200 masked men. He had shot and wounded a white man.

Three miners—A. D. Bailey, P. J. Brown and Fred McDonald—were rescued Sunday after having been 46 days in a caved-in mine at Ely, Nev., 1055 feet below the surface of the earth. A six-inch water pipe remained open and through this they were fed by lowering food and drink until the debris was removed. Two other men with them were killed.

The National Independent Telephone Association, which is to meet in Chicago today, has made known its intentions of discussing, at least, and stopping if possible, the requests of the operators to call patrons in the early mornings. In a number of the Northern cities the requests have been refused. The Bell company has objected strenuously to the custom.

INCORPORATION LAW

Amendments Suggested and Where the Newspapers Also Come In.

MR. EDITOR:

You are doubtless familiar with the State law requiring that the word "Incorporated" be placed on all stationery and advertisements used by incorporated concerns in this State. As a printer and a publisher, you know what was intended as a safeguard to protect legitimate merchants against unscrupulous persons who might be shielding themselves behind privileges extended to incorporations, has in its practical workings proven a hardship on the honest merchants and manufacturers of this State.

The law governing corporations is a good one in the main, and the feature of it pertaining to the use of the word "Incorporated" is all right insofar as it requires the word to be placed on all bill heads, letter heads and statements, also on the sign at the place of business, but to require that it shall appear on all newspaper advertisements, and advertising matter of all sorts, cards, circulars, or what not, is an utterly useless requirement, entails a hardship upon all advertisers and profits nobody but the county and district prosecutors.

It is a source of embarrassment and annoyance to all newspapers who publish advertisements, often occasioning them a loss of business and sometimes loss in damages.

Last summer, the writer took this matter up with some wholesale merchants in Louisville, and House Bill No. 57 (Kinkead) is the resulting amendment asked for, and embraces the following changes:

First—that the abbreviation "Inc." be acceptable.

Second—that this "Inc." be used "in conjunction with," instead of "under" the firm name.

Third—that it is to be used only on bill heads, letter heads, statements, and the sign at the places of business.

Fourth—that the maximum penalty be $100.

These changes are conservative, do not affect the intent or meaning of the law, save a deal of unnecessary worry to both merchant and printer and for these reasons, the aid of the newspapers is invoked in securing its passage.

Respectfully,

GEO. E. CARY.

MOTHER BELIEVES IN PERUNA.

Mrs. K. Kane, of Chicago, Uses Pe-ru-na in her family of five children, Grace, Myrtle, Edward, Reeves and George.

EDWARD

REEVES GEORGE A HEALTHY FAMILY

Kept the Children Well.

Mrs. K. Kane, 196 Sebor St., Flat 1, Chicago, Ill., writes: "Peruna has been used so long in our family that I do not know how I could get along without it."

"I have given it to all of my five children at different times when they suffered with croup, colds and the many ailments that children are subject to, and am pleased to say that it has kept them in splendid health."

"I have also used it for a catarrhal difficulty of long standing, and it cured me in a short time, so I have every reason to praise Peruna."

It is impossible to estimate how many homes have been protected against croup by the proper use of Peruna.

Household Remedies.

There are many cures in the world which have proven so popular for catarrh as Peruna. It has been used for more than thirty years and cured thousands of cases, as proven by our testimonials.

In the early history of this country every family had its home-made medicines. Herb teas, bitters, laxatives and tonics were to be found in almost every house, compounded by the housewife, sometimes assisted by the apothecary or the family doctor.

Furnishing medical compounds direct to the public, physicians and druggists, is simply the evolution of the practice begun by the people themselves.

Nervous System a Weak.

John G. Hindler, Garfield, Kan., writes:

"On December 2, 1899, I was injured by a fall on the Santa Fe R. R., and my entire nervous system was impaired by the same. The help of a physician was useless. I believe I tried every one in the vicinity, but all were alike and I remained without strength."

"I then tried Peruna, and after using it for three months was totally well."

I am seventy-one years old, and my work on the railroad is hard and tedious, but I can work like a young man in all kinds of weather, heat, cold, rain, snow or storm alike."

"Peruna is the purest and best medicine, and if used according to directions, it will help any person and cure any disease for which it is recommended. I recommend this medicine by my own experience to any one suffering from an ailment on the order of mine."

CATARRH OF STOMACH.

Mr. John M. Stansberry, Amarillo, Tex., writes:

"For several years I had catarrh of the stomach. I was hardly able to do anything, and could not eat with any satisfaction."

"When I commenced using Peruna, I weighed only 110 pounds. I took six bottles, commencing in the spring, and by the following winter I had gained 63 pounds."

"I owe it all to Peruna. It cannot be praised too highly."

"I am forty-five years old, and my occupation is that of architect and builder."

REMOVED WITHOUT STRENGTH.

"I then tried Peruna, and after using it for three months was totally well."

I am seventy-one years old, and my work on the railroad is hard and tedious, but I can work like a young man in all kinds of weather, heat, cold, rain, snow or storm alike."

"One day I happened to read some testimonials in your Peruna almanac. I bought a bottle of each and after taking them for a week, I noticed a change for the better. So I kept it up and after using twelve bottles I was perfectly cured."

"I also gave the medicine to my children and they had the same beneficial results. I would never be without these remedies when I have a cold."

"I highly recommend Peruna and Manalin to all my friends, and, in fact, to everybody."

Thousands of families have learned to trust and believe in Dr. Hartman's judgment, and to rely on his remedy, Peruna.

GRACE

Catarthal Group.

Few people realize how frequently croup is caused by catarhal congestion of the throat. Probably nine cases out of ten of croup is of the catarhal variety.

The medical profession recognizes two forms of croup: the spasmodic variety, membranous croup and catarhal croup.

Nearly every case of the catarhal variety, and a few doses of Peruna taken at the first appearance of the catarhal symptoms is generally sufficient to arrest the attack of croup altogether.

Croup is a frightful disease. No disease of children so alarms the household.

Others of provident mothers and fathers are grateful to the inventors of the home by using Dr. Hartman's great remedy, and profiting by his medical books and personal advice.

After all experiences in the school teacher. Some doctors may write in favor of Peruna. Other doctors may write against it. But this is the testimony of the mothers and fathers who are rearing families, who love their children, who must economize to doctor bills, who are raising little boys and girls, and whom and whom the faith in Peruna is the testimony of such people that really counts.

There is no way to positively ascertain how many families in the United States rely upon Peruna for the many climatic ailments to which the family is subject. The number must be a great one. Several millions perhaps. They have learned how to use Peruna for ordinary ailments, and in that way are guarding their homes against more serious diseases.

Such ailments as coughs and colds, sore throat and catarrh, croup and colic, indigestion and loss of appetite, asthma and nervousness, all these ailments are promptly relieved by a few doses of Peruna at the right time.

Friends of provident mothers and fathers are grateful to the inventors of the home by using Dr. Hartman's great remedy, and profiting by his medical books and personal advice.

For Writers, Artists, and Editors, Only.

The February American Magazine contains an amusing story by Charles Battell Loomis which will be appreciated especially by writers, artists and editors. It is the story of a young artist and author who sold his first short story and the pictures to go with it for the paltry sum of $500.

Others may laugh, but writers, artists and editors won't.

DRUNKEN NEGRO

Has Very Narrow Escape by Falling From Train.

A negro named Ed Brown, claiming to be a miner at Earlinton, fell from a train while stealing a ride on the L. & N. road yesterday morning. He was on the rods under the car and was in a drunken condition. While the car was moving very slowly he fell off the rods and managed to roll out from under the wheels just in time to escape being crushed. He was brought to police headquarters and his injuries were found to be slight. He was held for drunkenness.

ONE OF THREE

Of Edward Amherst Ott's Splendid Lectures.

The people of this city are to have one of Edward Amherst Ott's lectures on Wednesday night, January 29th, at the Tabernacle. Mr. Ott, besides being the author of several books of acknowledged merit, has three lectures, "The Haunted House," "The Spenders," and "Sour Grapes." These lectures have been heard in almost every state in the union and preachers, statesmen and editors of the leading papers of the country, speak in loudest praise of their merits from a literary standpoint as well as the capacity of Mr. Ott as an entertainer. Educators also recommend the lectures and the author is eminently worthy of a hearing. Mr. McPherson, in securing Mr. Ott to All No. 6 of the Tabernacle course, certainly made a wise selection. He secured a man who will appeal strongly to the literati as well as those who go to hear a lecture because they enjoy like to hear something out of the ordinary.

Mr. Ott should, and doubtless will, be greeted by a large and appreciative audience at his first appearance before Hopkinsville people.

Don't forget the drinking fountain on Main Street.

THE PANIC

Is Passing Away And commerce Moving in Ordinary Channels.

(Louisville Post.)

The bank statement Saturday, taken in connection with the statement a week ago Saturday, will put new confidence into the whole business organization of the country. There is in our financial record no such instance of a rapid recovery of a commercial community from a panic that promised at one time to be serious.

The deposits in the New York banks have increased in one week 38 million dollars. The surplus is now 22 million dollars, an increase in one week of 16 million. The loans have increased nearly 10 million dollars, which we suppose accounts for their rapid advance in the price of New York stocks.

This bank statement means the average of all the banks. Some, no doubt, are stronger than others, but the opportunity is given to all of them to work out their own salvation through ways of prudence and a course of restraint.

The situation of the money market in New York reflects the condition in Europe and here at home. Commerce again is beginning to move in its ordinary channels. Exchanges that have been so seriously interrupted have been resumed. There is not this year as last year that condition of traffic which did so much to demoralize business in January, 1907. There is a world-wide demand for American agricultural products. There is a demand also for products of the American mills, and the people who want these things have the money to pay for them and are paying for them.

The exports for the month of December were the largest in our history. Steel plants are resuming and everywhere are increasing indication of sound conditions and a steady increase in commercial transactions.

In the building just now, a London newspaper is published in the sign of Queen Anne, wherein is the motto, "Non Desidero, Non Dico," which is a curious description of a passing ship; stated to have been invented by a Portuguese Lorenzo, a Lazaridian priest. The paper has an engraving of the arm and a long description. The inventor claimed that he could travel 200 miles in 24 hours.

Choosing a Hat.

When it comes to the choice of a hat do not get a small toque if the features are large, particularly the nose. The tendency with too small a hat will be to exaggerate the size of this feature. Be equally careful, should the features be small, not to choose too heavy-looking a hat, and this no matter how tall you are. Large hats may be worn, but they must be light and graceful in effect.

For the Hair.

Charming little hair ornaments are the bows of dotted tulip boudoir with velvet and wired into a backward-curving wing shape. White gauze bows are bows with satin. The bows are worn low on the head.

Voice of the Waistcoat.

The individuality of color are very important factors of style.

How often does one see a woman of the athletic type, who looks very smart in tailor-made, ruin her appearance at a dinner!

She appears in a slimy confection of old chaffion, with her hair elaborately waved.

Such dressing is absolutely unsuited to her strong personality.

Had she chosen a simple gown of white; if she had wound her locks around her head in a heavy plait, her appearance would have been striking.

A Servicable Vest.

Vests are one of the most important accessories of the well-dressed woman, and it is well to know that those of English, cross-barred, horseshoe, with diamond-shaped single need will outwear any number of ordinary tulip and are far less trying to the eyes.

A Little Rumor.

Are bangs coming in again? This is a rumor which is floating around. How about the bangs of 20 years ago when bangs odd-looking turbuloes and hence like criticism will be made of our own photographs. Yes, bangs are coming in, and some women are already wearing them.

MADAME DEAN'S FRENCH FEMALE PIGS.

For babies, children, children's afternoon dresses ribbons will be used in a great deal. A last year's dress can be made to look like new if ribbon is skillfully used. Velvet, satin, grosgrain, and taffeta ribbons are the ones used. The trimming can be put on in almost any way one wishes.

Another trimming is plaid material. A dress of plain cloth is trimmed with bias plaid, or a plaid cloth material of some contrasting shades.

Braids are particularly fashionable for trimming both adults and children's dresses, and they are seen in many beautiful varieties.

Hat Trimming Hint.

The more flowered hat is becoming hackneyed, but the idea is still being carried out by the milliners, as it has met with so much favor.

The simple field blossoms and grasses look quite exquisite in conjunction with new felt hats, of rich butter color. White hats are still seen with the same flowers, plus white rosebud feathers. Velvet ribbon is making its appearance as a hat trimming, and it is very successful when mingled with illusion net. Ribbons are lined with colored or black silk, or else a little lace covers the edge.

Overcasting of Sleeves.

To overcast the sleeves and hems at the same time was the invention of one woman who was pressed for time. By overcasting the sleeves the busting was avoided and there were no hawing threads to pull out. Sleeves put in this manner are easier to stitch on the machine.

SKIRTS FOR WINTER.

New Garments are Made in Three or Four Ways.

Skirts are made in one of three or four different ways. But just for the moment, the favorite is the plaited straight skirt. But it all depends upon the material after all and the fancy plaited skirt with the plait set in below the hips is a model that is much worn.

Where materials will permit the ruffled skirt is popular, and the skirt, consisting of two deep ruffles, each one-half the depth of the skirt, is selected as the model in soft silks and poplins.

The most popular empire skirt is one of the best models for a plain walking skirt. It is fitted across the hips, but spreads widely below. It is made without ornamentation of any kind, but is finished with two or three plain bands around the foot. These bands are of velvet, sewed upon the upper edge only, so as to set out well and make a pretty finish for the skirt.

Two other good empire skirts are the wide lace and the wide, handsome border of heavy lace around the bottom is a favorite way of trimming this style of skirt. Still another popular method is that of applying a ruffle about a foot wide, with a heading of lace, or with a piping of silk, or some flat velvet.

The fitted skirt is much in evidence, and there are skirts that are made with the plates turning back sharply from the front. They are wide and so arranged as to leave a very broad front panel, which is ornamented in some manner. This wide front panel may be trimmed with lace or with a braided design.

The use of lace upon winter skirts may seem a questionable stretch of appropriateness, yet when one sees the beautiful winter gowns that are trimmed with lacy materials one is forced to change one's mind as to the use of lace on winter gowns. Many of the handsome winter costumes are trimmed with filmy materials. Lace dyed in various colors and also in black and white are all much worn. The mixed fabrics are so pretty that they need little or no decoration, and many of the dressmakers absolutely refuse to trim them in anyway, declaring that it spoils a woman's lines to break up the pattern with trimming.

Making Plumes New.

Ostrich feathers which have been in use for some time often require reshaping as well as recurling. The quill of the feather should be held in the steam of a fast-boiling kettle until it is perfectly pliable. It may then be straightened out flat on a board and planed down until dry, or curled round a linen collar if a rounded effect is required.

One clever woman has even dyed her plumes.

They were a delicate blue until the summer sun turned them white. Desiring them blue again she simply mixed a few drops of blue ink with oil paint tube to give the desired shade. Into this they were dipped. After that they were shaken gently and hung on the clothesline by the tip ends. When dry they were well shaken. The ends may be curled, if one prefers, by simply drawing the fronds between the fingers and a dull knife.

French Belts.

Parisians are wearing very elaborate leather belts, the leather being much tooled and gilded after the fashion of old bindings, having solid gold buckles. With an ingenious device many women are wearing them out of front to front, the dress buckle coming in front, while the narrower one, with its holes for adjusting, goes at the back. This plan gives a pretty sloping line to the waist. The striped leather belt is very fashionable for the moment.

The belts are of white suede and the stripes, about half an inch wide, run across. These have nothing at the back, and are fastened in front with a wide square or Byzantine buckle of bronze or gold.

AMUSEMENTS

The next attraction at Holland's Opera House will be the musical comedy, "The Messenger Boy."

There is nothing in the local bookings for the current season that will attract the interest of playgoers to a greater extent than "The Lion and the Mouse," which Henry B. Harris will present here in the very-near future, and which comes with an endorsement that has not hitherto been vouchsafed any production of recent year. Charles Klein wrote the play and when Henry B. Harris gave New Yorkers the opportunity of viewing it they liked it so well that it ran for two years at the Lyceum Theatre in that city. The Boston judgment was expressed in crowded houses for eight months, and for the twenty-five weeks it ran in Chicago the attendance exceeded anything in the history of Chicago theater.
